

THE ANTARCTICAN SOCIETY

Notice to Members

The Officers and Board of Directors have the pleasure to announce the first Antarctic Society Memorial Lecture, It is the desire of the Society to honor the memory of those of its members who are deceased and, by so doing, to honor as well all those distinguished dead who have contributed to our knowledge of Antarctica.

The Antarctic Society Memorial Lecture will be delivered at the National Academy of Sciences, 2101 Constitution Avenue, on the evening of March 31, 1964 at 8 p.m. The distinguished biologist and Antarctic veteran Dr. William J. L. Sladen of the Johns Hopkins University, will give an illustrated lecture entitled "Penguins and Skuas." After the talk, there will be a social hour, during which the Society will serve light refreshments. The meeting will be open to the public, and members are urged to bring guests and to invite the attention of those who may be interested.

On April 30, 1964 the Society will conduct its annual business meeting, also at the National Academy of Sciences. In addition to the election of officers, consideration of changes in the By-laws, and such other business as the Officers, Board of Directors, or individual members may desire to bring before the Society, there will be a short program. Representatives of the U.S. Naval Support Force, Antarctica, and the National Science Foundation will present the highlights of the 1963-64 operations.
