1983 MEMORIAL LECTURE

"FUTURE OF THE ANTARCTIC TREATY SYSTEM"

by

R. Tucker Scully, Director

Office of Oceans and Polar Affairs

Department of State

Wednesday, 12 October

8 PM

Main Auditorium

National Academy of Sciences
2101 Constitution Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C.

The Memorial Lecture will be preceded by a cocktail hour (5 PM) and dinner (6PM) — limited to 200 people. The Lecture is being held in conjunction with the USGS Polar Research Symposium at the National Academy, October 12-14, with the cocktails-dinner (London broil) being open to all attendees, at a cost of $20 per person. If you want to be there when they break ice and cut bread, get your money in immediately, as we expect a big crowd, a sell-out. If you want to phone in your reservation, call Ruth at (703)522-2905, on or after Monday, the 26th.

If you want to make a day and a half of it, Antarctica will be the subject of papers all day on the 12th and the morning of the 13th. And there's no law saying Antarcticans can't stay the other day and a half to hear about the Arctic — not as exciting, of course.

As you read this, Tucker Scully is in Australia attending the current Consultative Meeting on the Antarctic Treaty. So, not only will we all be hearing from the top U.S. man on the Treaty, but he'll be bringing us the latest red-hot news. It will be another gala Memorial Lecture on a timely subject by a well-known authority. Best deal in town!

Those who have sent in dues checks, thanks! Those who are putting it off, get on the stick, please! Multi-year payments are appreciated. As we go to press, 38% have paid. We now have 434 members — best ever!
